

Updated Publications By County List

Where do you go to find out about the archaeology of Wisconsin, South Dakota, Montana, or Georgia? To The Missouri Archaeologist, of course. In addition to all the information on Missouri archaeology, the Society has published information on those states and several others in the years since publication began in 1935.

The Society has recently updated the index of MAS publications by county to help those interested in a certain region find books about their area (and to reduce the MAS inventory). While working on the index it was discovered that not all the publications can be related to a Missouri county, some pertain to other states, some to topics (like Terry Martin's important work on "The Early Woodland Period in Missouri" in Volume 58), and some pertain to regions like the Kansas City area.

The publications list does not include articles in the Quarterly. There are many important articles in the Quarterly and indexing them by county will be a future project.

The main intent was to create an index by county and there is at least something published on 72 of Missouri's 114 counties, a little over 60%. Saline County leads in number of articles, partly due to the Society's and the university's long involvement with the Utz site. If there isn't anything on your county please consider writing something. Some of the earlier Missouri Archaeologists which include county surveys would be a good model to follow.

Please read the notes at the end of the list. They help explain some of the things in the listings. If you have any questions please contact the MAS office.

Some of the in-print publications are in short supply, so order soon if you want one.

Explanation of Notes

1. Publications. The MAS has produced 4 types of publications. The Missouri Archaeologist (MA in the list) has been published (with a small hiatus during WWII) since 1935. In the beginning and for many years, the Society published multiple issues per year so there is Volume 27 No. 1, Volume 27 No. 2, and Volume Nos. 3-4. (I don't know how they decided when to have a single number and when to combine them.) The Society has also published Memoirs (Mem. in the list), Research Series (R.S. in the list), & Special Publications (S.P. in the list).

2. In Print? This indicates whether the publication is in or out of print. Those out of print can be copied for 10¢ per page.

3. Pages. This indicates the number of pages in the publication pertaining to the county in question. If there are two numbers with a slash (21/88) that indicates that there are 21 pages in the bulletin pertaining to the county & 67 pages pertaining to something else. It is only an estimate because many of the articles pertain to multiple counties. In some cases where a 40-page report combines information from 3 counties, & it is difficult to estimate, all 3 counties will show 40 pages. A - or + following the number of pages indicates there are less or more pages, usually when the article pertains to one county predominantly but has sections which don't, or when there is a core section pertaining to the county but there may be general information in other parts of the book. "Minor" means there is a minor amount of information pertaining to the county in the article.

4. Price. The prices are as of 2008 & subject to change without notice. For those bulletins still in print the price is for the whole publication, not just that article.

5. Title. The titles have been edited to fit available space in the list & may not match the title in the article exactly.  MA 9 was issued as No. 19. It was the 19th publication issued & for some reason instead of following the practice of identifying it as Vol. 9 it was called No. 19. With Vol. 10 they went back to the previous practice of identifying a volume for each year, & then having numbers within volume when appropriate.
